Program Provides Training & Resources for Caregivers

Care Optimally Parkinson Education (C.O.P.E.) is a free education and support-group program for caregivers of those with Parkinson’s disease. C.O.P.E. — developed by a clinical social worker — provides an overview of the disease and offers valuable information about resources to assist you. Individual counseling sessions are also available on a short-term basis.

Knowledge is Key

Receiving a diagnosis of Parkinson’s disease can be overwhelming for both the patient and their family. “What does this mean?” and “What should I expect?” are common questions from caregivers. Knowledge is key — about the disease, treatments and resources — to understanding your new support role for a loved one. And making sure you’re taking care of yourself along this journey is important, too.

Program Topics

- Overview of Parkinson’s and stages of the disease
- Care planning at each stage
- Managing medicines and available treatments
- Securing your care team
- Mood and cognitive changes
- Getting the most out of your doctor appointments
- Identifying community resources
- Patient advocacy
- Guilt, stress and negative thinking
- Intimacy and caregiving
- And more

Convenient Locations
